Austintown Police Department

Adolph Johnson & Son Co. was selected to provide the Design/Build services for an addition to the Austintown Township Police Station. The addition provides the much needed additional space and environmental and technical enhancements for the dispatching department.

The exterior walls were constructed of Autoclaved Aerated Concrete Panels to provide a "whisper quiet" secure space for the dispatchers to perform their essential duties. Along with the dispatching stations the addition provided a kitchen area, IT equipment room, and top notch security.

Wheatland Tube

The Wheatland Tube Company requested the Adolph Johnson & Son Co. to assist in the Design/Build of a new 5,150 square foot Restroom/Locker facility located at 901 Dietz Rd. N.E. in Warren, Ohio. The facility is constructed of AAC reinforced Autoclave Aerated Concrete exterior wall panels. The AAC panels provide superior strength as well as industry-leading sound transfer and insulation value. The interior finishes consist of stainless steel toilet partitions and bathroom accessories, 13 shower stalls, and 150 lockers for both the men and women employees. The interior partition walls are constructed using concrete masonry units painted with high gloss epoxy paint and the floor finish is a high impact, bacteria-resistant, non-slip, sealed polished concrete. The exterior walls were finished using a factory painted 26 gaged corrugated metal siding. The area surrounding the building was regraded, paved, and striped for the new 123 space parking lot.

President's Ponderings

Man, we sure are lucky. Just how fortunate is a matter of degrees. Living in this country at this place in time is as good as quality of life has ever been up to this point (with the possible exception of the Garden of Eden). Except for unusual circumstances we all have food, clothing, and shelter. Not only do we have these necessities, but they are abundant and easily accessible.

Food...no foraging in the forest for something edible. We just go to the store and pick out what looks good.

Clothing...no sewing together animal skins or weaving fibers. We just go to the store, or online and pick out what we think is flattering.

Shelter...we don't all live in mansions, but very few of us live in tents or caves unless by choice. And if we are hot or cold we just adjust the thermostat. No collecting firewood or stoking furnaces, even beyond the basic necessities we have so much. Television, internet, music recordings, all available with a few clicks to entertain us. Healthcare professionals and medications to take care of our ailments. Cars and other forms of transportation to take us where we want to go quickly and comfortably. All forms of hobbies to fill our leisure time.

We are indeed fortunate to live where and when we do, even when something comes along to interrupt our normal routines. We are also a generous and caring people that step up and help those that fall victim to misfortune; particularly in catastrophic times. It all works together - The more you give the more you receive.

Stay well and enjoy!
 Paul A. Johnson Jr.

I've found that worry and irritation vanish into thin air the moment I open my mind to the many blessings I possess.

The inherent vice of capitalism is the unequal sharing of blessings; the inherent virtue of socialism is the equal sharing of miseries.

The business of America is not business. Neither is it war. The business of America is justice and securing the blessings of liberty.

Covid-19 Precautions

As an essential business supporting our community with our services during this pandemic, we have managed to stay proactive and prepared as the health and well-being of our employees, vendors, and contractors are of our utmost concern.

Most of our office team were able to work remotely from home while creating a system of alternating days of the week for each person to come in to the office one at a time. We also made sure our employees had the necessary items to follow safety measures such as thermometers, masks, gloves, and disinfectants.

As of May 4, 2020, all of our office team has resumed working at the office while practicing social distancing, taking temperatures, wearing masks, and disinfecting all surfaces.

All we can do now is stay safe, healthy, and hopeful as we slowly get back to normalcy.

Patience is bitter, but its fruit is sweet.

Many Americans forget the true meaning of Memorial Day as they get together with friends and family to have fun and cook out as the weather starts to warm up. Especially this year after all that has happened with the pandemic & social distancing.

Although Memorial Day, also formerly known as "Decoration Day" comes once a year, we should always remember our brave men and women who chose to sacrifice their lives to protect our country. It's a time to come together to pay tribute to the nearly two million soldiers who gave their lives in service. There are many simple ways we can honor our Veterans, whether it be flying the American flag at half-staff, visiting a soldiers burial site and placing a flag or flowers, wearing a red poppy, making a donation to the "Memorials & Dedication" page at the National Veterans Foundation online, and last, but not least...pausing at 3:00 p.m. local time to take a minute to silently reflect during the National Moment of Remembrance.
